This sure is a queer old world. Every one in it is trying to sell something to everyone else.

Dr. Hatfield, Dentist, of Danville, is now located in Lancaster, office over Garrard Bank.

Ladies Aid Society of the Baptist Church will serve court day dinner, April 24th, 1916.

Don't forget what your wife told you to get down town, or you may get it when you get home.

A real treat tonight at the Auditorium. This program is equal to any Chautauqua attraction.

Dr. Acton says all premises in Lancaster will be inspected the first week in April, irrespective of person.

The Rev. F. H. Hudson the new pastor of the Presbyterian church will not be in Lancaster until the 5th day of April.

Curtain rises promptly at 7:45 tonight, 20 good voices, stringed quartet, bass soloist, comic dialogues etc. Come and help the C. E.'s.

When March leaves this week no one will regret the departure, for the month has been cold, dreary, fitful, dull, and fraught with disaster and uneasiness.

The third grandchild of President Wilson was born Sunday and named Eleanor for the first Mrs. Wilson. The Stork and Cupid both have been in evidence in the Wilson administration.

We notice in the Lexington Leader where an entertainment was given at the Ada Meade for the benefit of Sayre College Infirmary. In the "Living Pictures", Miss Elizabeth Ford and Jimmie Loyd posed as Hope and Memory.

Because you live at the edge of town do not think you can keep hogs after the first of May. You must be out of the town limits or you will be reported by your neighbors. Some did this last year who call themselves law abiding citizens.

We read that the road construction in Daviess county will be done under competitive contracts with the supervision of the fiscal court, whose every act shall have the most searching publicity. That is what honest members of the court ask and what the public may reasonably expect, the tax payers have a right to know just how their money is expended and it should be spent judiciously and in such a way as to insure good roads throughout the State.

Tell me, ye winged winds that around my pathway rear, do ye not know some quiet spot where wives clean house no more; some lone, sequestered date, some island, oceanfront, where life is not one ceaseless war with cobwebs and with dirt; where only nature's carpet spreads beneath their tired feet, and wretched men are ne'er compelled its emerald folds to beat? The lake breeze fanned my heated face and said; "Beat on? There's no such place."

It is one thing for Americans in Mexico voluntarily to take the risk inherent in a condition in insurrection, and to suffer because of those conditions; it is quite another to have the peace and quiet of the American border destroyed by an invasion of our territory by these armed marauders. Not only have the American citizens a right to protection; it is the first duty of the American government to see that this protection is given in the face of such an invasion.

Several pieces of old fashioned furniture. Mrs. Naomi Hamilton.

CORONER JONES

Judge C. A. Arnold made a popular appointment when he named Mr. Will Jones to succeed his father as coroner last Monday. Mr. Jones will fill out the unexpired term and we think he will make a good official.

RUGS AND VACUUM CLEANER

Mrs. Fannie Illosh, who we all know, is asking your patronage in an advertisement in this issue. She makes rugs and also sells a vacuum cleaner to keep the rugs clean after they are made. She has samples to show you and will be glad to have you call and see them at her residence near the depot.

GOOD ADVICE.

Say, Mr. Saufley, while you are throwing bricks, how about the support of yourself and the Interior Journal towards the present Democratic administration at Frankfort? We have noticed that you have tried with all your power to throw cold water on everything that has been done or said by anyone connected with the present State administration. Get in line now and be a real good Democrat and quit trying to find so much fault with your brother editors and the present State administration. —Danville Advocate.

EVANGELIST OF EDUCATION.

President Crosfield, of Transylvania made a most pleasing and impressive address at the school auditorium Friday afternoon. His address was directed to the student body and parents urging preparedness for life by a broad, liberal education. His statistics proving that a college education pays were convincing. He urged the students not to be satisfied to pass the eighth grade and high school but to have the grit and determination to go thru some college.

GRATEFUL TO LANCASTRIANS.

The ever sympathetic and hospitable citizens of Lancaster are thanked by Mrs. Luisa Drake, for the many courtesies shown her in her recent illness. Mrs. Drake is now out again but taken this means to let friends know she was not unmindful of their thoughtfulness.

DR. CASEY GOES

TO DANVILLE.

Dr. J. M. Casey, one of the best veterinary surgeons in the State will go to Danville to take up the practice of his father, Dr. H. L. Casey who has gone to Mexico, having volunteered his services to the war department. From the fact he speaks Spanish he will doubtless be assigned a quartermaster position. Young Dr. Casey has made many friends in Lancaster, both he and his wife are popular here and we regret to give them up.

CELEBRATES SIXTY-

FIFTH BIRTHDAY.

On last Sunday March 26th Mrs. Jno. Davis passed her 65th milestone. The day was made memorably by a happy surprise being given her by her children and grand children. Mrs. Davis was surprised by a birthday dinner and several nice presents. She is a native of Garrard, having lived on White Lick forty-two years. She is a mother of fourteen children and thirty-four grandchildren. That Mrs. Davis may have many more happy birthdays is the wish of Children and Grandchildren.

He asked us to state that if rubbish is placed in barrels and boxes in front of premises they will be hauled away. He furthermore states that all premises will be inspected the first week in April and asks for the hearty cooperation of citizens in cleaning up and reporting nuisances of any kind. He asks that all hogs be removed by May 1st.

VALUABLE SERVICE

RENDERED STATE.

There comes to our notice the last issue of The Register, of the State Historical Society, edited by Mrs. Jennie C. Morton, at Frankfort. The Register is full of historical data, among which is the Boone Record containing the Boone genealogy dating from 1666. Few people in Kentucky know and appreciate, as they should, the services rendered the state by Mrs. Morton and her sister in collecting and preserving the records of distinguished men and women who have made Kentucky famous. But for these untiring, patriotic and versatile women much valuable information would be lost to posterity. Kentucky owes them a debt of gratitude it can never repay.

ROAD HOG IS DISAPPEARING.

The farmer who used to hold the center of the road with his wagon heavily loaded with produce, in short, the "road hog", is rapidly disappearing in Kentucky, as any motorist who travels the State highway will testify. The obnoxious automobile of a few years ago has come to be a luxury and convenience that the broad-minded farmer has been quick to appreciate, and the very fact that the farmer himself has become a motorist has removed the last vestige of envy on his part. The trials of the motorist are now the trials of the farmer, and there is a general tendency to remove all obstacles that make legitimate motoring unpleasant.

OPERATION SUCCESSFUL.

Friends of Mrs. Malcom House will be pleased to know that she is recovering nicely from an operation performed at the Danville hospital last Friday and that her entire recovery is only a matter of short duration.

NEW FIRM

Mr. Harry Tomlinson, who recently sold his interest in the firm of Logan, Anderson and Tomlinson has purchased the interest of Mr. Alex Doty of the firm of Davidson & Doty. The new firm whose advertisement appears in this issue of the Record will be ready for business April 1st. Success to them.

SHEEP MONEY HERE

Those having claims for sheep killed by dogs during the year 1915 will be paid in full, if they will present them to County Clerk, Jon Hamilton. It isn't every year that these claims will pay dollar for dollar, but the tax received from dog owners last year amounts to about $1,000 and the total damage allowed for sheep killed was only $619. The balance goes into the school fund.

GRAND JURY ADJOURNS

After returning Twenty Indictments.

The grand-jury finally adjourned last Friday after sitting six days and returning in all about twenty indictments. In their final report to the court they compliment the county officials for the work they have accomplished in remodeling the Court House and the spending of the people's money so judiciously. The following report, which is interesting, we print in full.

To the Hon. Charles A. Hardin, Judge, Garrard Circuit Court.

We, the grand jury impaneled by you on the 1st day of the present March Term 1916, have completed our work, and beg to report that we investigated all the jail cases and returned indictments, and all other irregularities were fully investigated, including the charge made against Governor A. O. Stanley, that he looked as though he had been drinking when he passed Lancaster on the special train last November, and we find that the local minister who made this charge was entirely mistaken in his intuition and our investigation of the facts show that Gov. Stanley was not drunk and had not been drinking at that time.

We beg leave to report that we find that whiskey has been sold both in the County, and in the city of Lancaster and indictments have been returned in all the cases we have been able to get evidence to justify indictments. In the city of Lancaster we find that practically all the illegal sale of liquor came from a few blind tigers and the owners and operators of these are now in jail. In the County we find very little liquor being sold. The people of Bryantsville report that very little is being sold there now, and other sections of the county is equally free from this condition.

We have been investigating violations of the lottery Statute, and recommend to the grand jury for the next term of Court that they continue the investigation to the end that there may be no violation by operating slot machines, punch boards, raffles, and all kinds of illegal drawing contests, and should there be any violations, to promptly indict and put an end to this gambling school.

We investigated the County Institutions and found them in reasonably good condition. The re-modeled Court house is an honor to the County of Garrard and the present officials of the county deserve credit for the good work they have done in spending the people's money so judiciously.

Nothing further having come under our observation, we beg to be finally excused. Respectfully submitted,
W. R. Cook, Foreman.

NOTICE

The Iaeger Telephone Company takes pleasure in announcing that they have installed a first class Exchange in Lancaster with a metallic circuit, with two wires for each phone, thereby insuring a much better service than the old ground wire system. The Company has spent over Six Thousand Dollars ($6000) to make this improvement, and expects to spend more until it makes it one of the very best systems in the State of Kentucky. When the present system was installed at $1.00 per month there were not more than forty phones connected through the Exchange, but now the Company has a connection of more than six hundred phones. In the last year material has doubled in cost and is increasing every day. Our taxes have greatly increased and the expense of operation is greater than ever before, and it is impossible to operate under the present rate and make expenses. It is, therefore, necessary that the rates on and after the first day of April, 1916, will be $1.50 for residence phones per month and $2.00 per month for business phones. We desire to express our appreciation for past patronage from the public and solicit your future patronage under the rates announced, which we assure you are reasonable and just and much lower than the rates in other towns and counties of the State of Kentucky.

A FLY CATECHISM.

1. Where is the fly born? In manure and filth.

2. Where does the fly live? In every kind of filth.

Is anything too filthy for the fly to eat? No.

4. (a) Where does he go when he leaves the surface closet and the manure pile and the spittoon? Into the kitchen and dining-room. (b) What does he do there? He walks on the food; the bread and fruit and vegetables. He wipes his feet on the butter and bathes in the milk.

5. Does the fly visit the patient sick with typhoid, consumption and cholera infantum? He does, and he may call on you next.

6. Is the fly dangerous? He is man's worst pest, and more dangerous than wild animals and rattlesnakes.

7. What disease does the fly carry? He carries typhoid fever, consumption and summer complaint. How? On his wings and hairy feet. What has his correct name? Typhoid fly.

8. Did he ever kill anybody? He killed more American soldiers during the Spanish-American war than did the bullets of the Spaniards.

9. Where are the greatest number of cases of typhoid fever, consumption and summer complaint? Where there are the most flies.

10. Where are the most flies? Where there is the most filth.

11. Why should we kill the fly? Because he may kill us.

12. When shall we kill the fly? Kill him before he gets wings—kill him when he is a maggot in the manure pile—kill him while he is in the egg stage.

13. How? Keep the stable dry and clean and don't allow any manure to stay on the premises longer than one week. Have all other filth and trash accumulating on your premises removed or burned at least once a week.

14. If your neighbor fails to comply with these rules and allows flies to breed on his premises to visit you, screen your doors and windows and keep them out.

POEMS THAT LIVE.

Great Issues In Little Things.

"All Heaven—her beauty, brim to brim,
Her brows, her songs of Seraphim—
Was in that little kindly deed,
That prompt a brother in his need.
"All Hell, its fang and serpent hiss,
Its treason and its last abyss—
Was in that little careless sneer
That struck a brother like a spear."
—Edwin Markham.

My Evening Prayer.

If I have wounded any soul today,
If I have caused one foot to go astray,
If I have walked in my own wilful way—
Good Lord, forgive!

If I have uttered idle words or vain,
If I have turned aside from want or pain
Least I myself should suffer through the strain—

God Lord, forgive!

If I have craved for joys that are not mine,
If I have let my wayward heart repine,
Dwelling on things of earth, not things divine—

Good Lord, forgive!

If I have been perverse, or hard, or cold,
If I have longed for shelter in thy fold;
When thou has given me some part to hold—

Good Lord, forgive!

Forgive the sin I have confessed to thee;
Forgive the secret sins I do not see,
That which I knew not, Father, teach me—

Help me to live.

Maud Battersby, in Kansas City Journal.

FISHING FEVER.

Oh, the days are getting balmy,
And the grass is growing green,
While the leaves are awakening
Fine as I have ever seen;

And I've got the same old feeling
That comes o'er me every spring

When the brook begins its calling
And the birds begin to sing.

It's a lazy-hazy feeling,
Coupled with a fervent wish,

Not to do a dog-gone blessed thing

But lie around and fish;

Just to mosey to a quiet place

And lie around and fish;

Just to sorter shake my troubles off

And fool around and fish.

There's a silvery pool that's nidden
Well from anyone I know.

Where the sentinels are giants,

With their branches hanging low.

There no sign of sordid quest,

But the peaceful, slumbering quiet
Where a man can truly rest.

Oh, it's calling, calling,

For it knows my every wish

And just fool around and fish.

Not to do another blessed thing.

But to lie around and fish—

Just to get out in God's garden once and tinker 'round and fish.

—Exchangae.

REMEMBER THE GARDEN.

It is a good time to paste this caption in your hat, whether you have lordly acres in the country, or only square feet in the city or village. The season has been unfavorable this year for earlier work, but better weather and better soil conditions will surely prevail now that the vernal equinox has passed and more than the usual allotment of severe weather has gone by with it.

There are many who think it will cost but a few cents to buy the garden truck that one might grow in his garden. The convenience of having vegetables at hand when wanted and of the choice kinds and when fresh is a high consideration. Then the interest taken in the growing plants and the recreation that needed work affords, is wholesome and exhilarating. Prices have been constantly advancing and this is a consideration.

It is presumed that every one will have ordered seeds through the catalogues of some reputable house before this, but if not, many Lancaster stores keep choice assortments of the best seeds. A few years back the custom in this country was to borrow or exchange seeds with neighbors. The great seed farms of the county have such facilities for producing better seeds more cheaply that not many longer grow their own seeds.

No fertilizer is better for the garden lot than well rotten stable manure, and this should be used plentifully where the best results are to be obtained. Proper enrichment of the soil always tells in quantity and quality. The deep plowing and thorough pulverizing of the soil are to be looked after for this, always means less labor in the cultivation and better results in every way.

The following further hints from a gardener of high authority, are very much to the point:

"Plant in rows the long way of the garden, not in beds, (an exception in corn, which in a single row is liable to pollinate). Therefore plant it in blocks."

Put the tall, dense crops—corn, pole beans, etc.—at the western end, where they will shade the others the least, as is from the late afternoon sun.

Keep together the perennial sorts and next them the all season varieties such as carrots, salaiy, parsnips, etc., and plant the others in succession in the order of time of maturing, for convenience in working the ground for a second crop.

Let us consider for a moment what is to be aimed at in a vegetable garden:

First of all, of course, in table quality, then continuity of supply—you will want as many things for as long a time each as possible—but you will need to guard very carefully against getting any one of them in such abundance at any time that it will go to waste, and thirdly, you want your garden to go as far into the winter as possible."

—Exchangae.

POULTRY and EGGS

MONEY IN DUCK RAISING.

When Properly Cared For Quacks Return a Good Profit.

Duck raising on the farm can be made very profitable if rightly handled. There are two branches of duck culture—meat and eggs.

The former has not been given the attention it justifies, for ducks can be raised more cheaply than any other fowl.

Ducks are very easy to raise, as they are not susceptible to many of the ailments of chickens and turkeys, nor do they require expensive houses. A low shed with tight roof and walls on three sides opening toward the south

KEEP TURKEYS FREE FROM INSECT PESTS

(Prepared by United States department of agriculture.)

Turkeys are very sensitive to dampness, and the young poults should always be kept dry. An open coop made of slats or lath, protected on the top from the sun and rain by tar paper, may be placed over the mother turkey just prior to the hatching of her eggs, as this will prevent her from wandering away with her young when they are hatched, the coop, hen and poult to be moved to a proper place soon after the eggs are hatched. This coop should be large enough to allow the hen to stand erect and move about. Of course, this pen or coop for the turkey hen and poult must be clean, not too close or warm and absolutely free from parasitic enemies. The poult are allowed to run from this coop part of every day when the grass is dry, but they are made to stay within at night and during wet days until old enough to wander with the mother hen and roost out on the fences and trees.

The hen turkey should be carefully dusted with insect powder before being placed upon the nest to hatch eggs, and this is followed by dusting twice a week until within two or three days before hatching. It is well to dust the hen again before placing her in the coop with the young poult. Never use lime or sulphur for this purpose. Nothing is better than Persian insect powder, but any good insect powder will answer the purpose that does not contain ingredients that are injurious to the eyes. If the hen has not been makes an ideal duck house. The floor must be kept dry to prevent leg weakness.

It is not agreeable to have them ranging over the entire farm a very low, hog tight fence will turn them, and they will live on the cheapest kind of food. Green grass and a little cornmeal, with some kind of insect ration or meat scraps, will keep them growing rapidly.

After corn is two feet high they can be pastured in the cornfield, where they will help to keep down the weeds without injuring the growing corn. This is better than keeping them yarded near the house without range. Plenty of drinking water in receptacles deep enough for them to immerse their heads in is necessary, but they do not require water for bathing purposes at any season of the year. However, they will have a higher percentage of fertility in eggs if allowed a swimming place during the mating season.

One of the largest and most successful duck growers uses the following formulas for feeding ducklings: For first feeds equal parts of cornmeal, middlings, crackers or stale bread and green stuff, chopped with a small handful of sand to each quart of feed; after a week, two parts cornmeal, one part each of meat, bran and middlings, with a third as much green stuff as the rest together. After six weeks the ducks to be fattened are penned and the mash is made of two-thirds cornmeal, with bran, greens and 12 per cent of beef scraps.

The Cornell ration calls for nearly twice as much beef scrap proportionately as the above fattening mush. To fifteen pounds cornmeal are added ten pounds each of wheat middlings, wheat bran, meat scraps and alfalfa meal or chopped green feed. This is fed twice a day, with in addition a quart of corn to about thirty ducks at noon. If skim-milk is available to wet the mush half the named amount of meat scrap is needed.

Duck growers use sand, fine shell and grit, usually in the mush, but often in separate dishes. Many feed the corn under water.

Water For Hens.

The necessity of plenty of pure drinking water for the laying hens should be apparent to everybody, but we are sorry to say that many hens do not get enough water for their necessities during cold weather, says the Kansas Farmer. In many poultry houses the water freezes before the hens get enough to drink, and they go without water for most of the day. When we consider that the contents of an egg is about 90 per cent water, it should be plain to everybody that without plenty of water a hen cannot manufacture eggs. There are water fountains with a lamp attachment that will keep the water from freezing in the coldest weather, but we do not urge these, but that fresh water should be given the hens two or three times a day. All poultry houses should be made warm enough so that water should not freeze in them.

Protein For Hens.

Hens require protein. Our common grains are deficient in protein, and it must be supplied in the form of pure beef scraps, meat scraps, milk, green bone, blood meal or cooked jack rabbits. All these foods should be given the hens two or three times a day. All poultry houses should be made warm enough so that water should not freeze in them.

Care of the Incubator.

Keeping the temperature as even as possible is one of the first essentials with the incubator chicks. Sudden changes from heat to cold and overfeeding are causes of bowel trouble.

NO LOOKING BACK

IN LANCASTER

New Evidence Constantly Being Published.

Since the long succession of Lancaster reports were first published in the local press there has been no looking back. Lancaster evidence continues to pour in, and—better still—those whose reports were first published many years ago, verify all they said in a most hearty and unmistakable way. Read the experience of Mrs. C. T. Brummett, Crab Orchard, St., she says:

"My kidneys were out of order and I had pains through my back and kidneys. At times I was nervous. Doan's Kidney Pills made me feel much better and stronger in every way."

ON A LATER OCCASION, Mrs. Brummett said: "I cannot say too much in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills as a kidney and bladder medicine, for two boxes have cured me of that trouble."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Brummett has twice publicly recommended, Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

DON'T GO TO BED

WITH COLD FEET

Says: "Often Brings On Attacks Of Acute Rheumatism."

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and people who are subject to attacks of rheumatism should never go to bed with cold feet.

A whole lot is being said about taking salts and effervescent tablets for rheumatism and sciatica, but those who suffer sharp twinges and painful swollen joints need something powerful to overcome their piteous suffering.

Any broad-minded druggist will tell you that one-half teaspoonful of Rheuma taken once a day is driving more rheumatism out of afflicted people than all the salts on earth. Right in this neighborhood R. E. McRoberts and all druggists sell large quantities of it, and it's the surest and most inexpensive remedy—about 50¢ a bottle. 3-23-21.

Debs Easily Made.

The use of motor vehicles, which is becoming so general is causing a demand for better roads, and this use wears out the roads rapidly. What is Central Kentucky going to do to satisfy this demand? Shall the people vote a large bond issue, as is proposed in some of the Blue Grass Counties? Before this step is taken it would be wise for the people to consider the question well. It has been only a few years since the public took over the turnpikes at a consideration so inadequate that the roads were almost a gift to the public from private owners. The turnpike tax was immediately placed to the limit permitted to be collected under the Constitution, and yet, the roads are no better than when they were taken over by the public. Why, then, vote bonds to build new turnpikes when the available tax in the past has been insufficient to maintain the roads, which were practically given to the public in most of the Blue Grass Counties? In our judgment and according to our observation the system and plans adopted by the fiscal authorities in the past have been so poor that the public has not gotten the benefit of the available funds to keep in repair these macadam roads. What the future may develop along this line we can not predict, but there does not appear to us any good reason why a large bond issue should be voted upon these counties, which already have more macadam roads built than they have been able to maintain from available tax funds. What these counties need are better road systems with more competent persons in authority to handle the work. We need to get more for the money that is appropriated for the road purposes than we have been getting in the past. Lincoln County is about to take a second vote upon a proposed bond issue for a large sum, and there is some talk for such a move in this County. We would like to see a better showing with the money available for road purposes before a step is taken to lay such a heavy burden upon the tax payers for additional funds.

Those who believe that peace in Europe is among the possibilities of the next few months fail to take into account the internal condition of Germany and the probable effect upon the House of Hohenzollern of a peace that does not at least bring to Germany large war indemnities to help defray the cost of the war.

The course of public opinion in Germany in regard to the submarine controversy with the United States is most instructive upon this point. Plainly the responsible rulers of Germany did not want a conflict with this country, but a large number of the German people were violently opposed to any concession, and the possible dangers of running counter to public opinion caused the German Foreign Office to hesitate repeatedly in regard to the reasonable demands of the United States.

It is clear, therefore, that, if the rulers of Germany hesitate to make a concession to a country with whom Germany is not at war, they would be far more indisposed to yield to the only peace terms they could possibly hope to get from the nations Germany has now been fighting for nearly two years.

TRAGIC DEATH

BY DROWNING.

Mr. Dave Anderson Loses Life in Sugar Creek.

The death of Mr. Dave Anderson, which occurred Monday about 12 o'clock was doubly sad because it was so sudden and so tragic. Indeed it has seldom been our duty to record an tragic a death and a dark gloom spread over our entire community when it was told from one to another that Dave Anderson had drowned in Sugar Creek at the mouth of Comley's branch, near his home and four miles from Lancaster, while attempting to cross with wagon and team.

A heavy rain, somewhat in the nature of a cloud-burst, had caused the stream to rise past fording, which Mr. Anderson seemed unaware of. As soon as the team plunged in, the wagon bed was swept from beneath him and he was carried under by the current and appeared above the water only nine time. His body was recovered a few hours later, near the home of Mr. George Newton Ray, two miles from where the accident occurred. The body was taken to Mr. Ray's home, where an inquest was held by Coroner W. L. Jones, bringing out the facts as stated above.

Mr. Anderson was born in Garrard County 56 years ago. He was a son of Mr. William Anderson, his mother died when he was a mere youth. Besides his wife, who was Miss Isabell Lackey, he leaves three children, John L. Jr., Sue Anna, and Mrs. Walter Turner; he also leaves two brothers, Messrs. John L. Anderson, of Washington, D. C., and Clark Anderson of Kansas, and two half brothers, Messrs. Jones and Ozz Anderson, of this county, three full sisters, Mrs. George Brown, of Prestonsburg, Mrs. Miley Walker and Mrs. Hallie Prather, of Buckeye. He also survived by an aged step mother, Mrs. Victoria Anderson.

The death of Mr. Anderson was seemingly one of life's tragedies against which no human provision can be made. Such a death should teach us the uncertainty of life and also teach us to live so that when our summons comes to join the innumerable throng who have gone before we will be found ready. Mr. Anderson was a member of the Christian church and possessed a most kindly and gentle disposition and counted his friends by his acquaintances. At such times words seem empty things.

The sympathy and sorrow are very real and the Record voices the sentiment of the community in profound sympathy for the bereaved family.

Funeral services were conducted by Ed. F. M. Tindel followed by interment in Lancaster cemetery.

IRVINE COLEMAN RUCKER.

"And the finger of death touched him and he slept." Yes, the sweet spirit of Irvine Coleman Rucker is now with Jesus in glory, having commenced his journey heavenward when he was only eighteen years old, being converted and joining the M. E. church at Texas, Madison Co., which is now called College Hill, during a protracted meeting held by Bro. E. M. Cole. Since that time his face has been blonder, living a consistent Christian life. He passed away on March 21st at his home in Paint Lick. Mr. Rucker was born in Clark County Ky., in 1847 in Vienna. He married Miss Sarah Bird Griggs, of Madison Co. To them were given fourteen children, eight boys and six girls. Four of the boys are still living and five of the girls who will console and care for their devoted mother. The boys are Messrs. Jones Rucker of Richmond, Hume Rucker of Louisville, Roger and James Rucker of Lexington, Mrs. Minnie Williams of Indianapolis, Mrs. Lucy Conn, of Lancaster, Mrs. Eliza Treadwell, of Paint Lick, and Miss Chastine who is with her mother.

To be in this Christian home and witness the love shown between husband and wife and the devotion of parent and children was truly a delight. He will be missed in his community for he was a public spirited citizen, being a man of strong convictions and good judgment, he will be missed in his church for he was devoted to it and a Christian worker, he will be missed in his home for he was a kind and loving husband and devoted father. May those left emulate the example of this man of God.

THREE WILLS PROBATED

In the County Court last Monday, three wills were probated by Judge C. A. Arnold. That of Mrs. Elizabeth Walker, dated March 4th 1911, asks that her indebtedness be paid off after her personality and that her real estate be valued by three disinterested parties and equally divided among her five children, share and share alike. If however at any time that a majority of the children desire, the real estate is to be sold by the Executor and the proceeds divided equally. Her son Woods Walker is named an executor without bond.

The will of J. W. Hamilton leaves his entire estate to his widow, Mrs. Naomi Hamilton, but first ask that all his debts be paid in full and all notes, bonds, securities be sold and re-invested in real estate, his wife to have the entire proceeds derived from such estate and at her death to go equally to their two children. The will was dated October 1915 and names Mrs. Naomi Hamilton Executrix without bond.

The will of Al Dunn, colored, leaves his entire estate to his brother, Adam Dunn and his wife. This document was dated April 3rd, 1912.

CARD OF THANKS.

To the friends and neighbors who came to us in the bereavement of our husband and father and contributed all that human kindness could suggest we return heartfelt thanks. SCHOOL NOTES.

Do not fail to make allowance for slight exaggeration when hearing of pranks in school. Do not accuse the teacher of undue favoritism. If she is kinder to one child than to another it's because that one does not take advantage of the liberty allowed him. This is simple justice. Do not tell the teacher that Willie will not lie. She may know better. Do not condemn the teacher without a fair hearing. This is accorded to even the worst criminal. There are usually two sides to the story.

The Transylvania Glee Club arrived on the 11 o'clock train today (Thursday) and are being entertained in the homes of the Christian Endeavorers. The club is composed of 20 excellent male voices and Lancastrians are anticipating a musical treat.

Miss Margaret Cook, Minnie May Robinson, Mary Lee Lear and Irene Aldridge, Misses Will Rice Aron, Val Cook, Willie Belle West, Willie Miller, Irene Stapp, Robert Kinnard, Owen Hendren, Hudson Frisbie, Wallace Cotton, Robert Ross and James Nevius were in Stanford the past week for the Christian Endeavor Convention.

Miss Powell is a recent graduate of the Lancaster High School and has always ranked well as a student. She will teach the grades that have been taught by Miss Minnie Johnson, she having recently resigned.

Something About Truth.

Truth is something infinitely greater and more comprehensive than mere fact; it is anything which records, reflects or symbolizes not only life as it is, but life as it ought to be, and as hopeful faith believes it sometime, somewhere will be—the opening of a window toward Heaven.—Carlyle.

Anthrax Father of All Germs.

The anthrax germ is the father of all germs since it was the first discovered by the weak microscopes of half a century ago. That was because the germ was so big. The microscopes could not show the smaller germs. It was the anthrax germ, therefore, that led to the development of the microscope theory which caused such an advance in medicine.

Customer—"I've been cheated. I thought you said this parrot was a remarkable bird." Bird Fancier.

"Yes, sir. What I said was that he had been brought up in the company of learned men, and was full of philosophy and scholarship. Of course, he don't talk. Merely idle words have no attraction for him. But he's a remarkable parrot because he's a great thinker."

Problem Balked Philosopher.

It is curious to recall that Herbert Spencer hoped to take out a patent for a "flying machine." Only, he had given up as hopeless the problem since solved by the aeroplane, regarding it as impossible to carry the motor-engine and motor-power required for a long flight. His idea was suggested by the principle of the kite, and involved the drawing through the air of an inclined plane by iron wire cords attached to an endless wire rope moved by stationary engines.

Bleucher 46158, record 2:29, trial mile 2:14, half in 1:06, last quarter in 32 seconds, is a handsome seal brown horse, and will weigh 1100 pounds. He greatly resembles his good sire Silent Brook and is out of Clayo, by the great Futurity sire Moko.

Foreign demand has exhausted the supply and we may expect better prices for our horses in the future. Our advice to mare owners is to breed their mares and to breed them to stallions of merit and proven worth as sires. Bleucher is just the type to produce the colts that will supply the demand. His colts have proven fine, with nice head and neck and plenty of bone and conformation.

It can be seen by the pedigree that this horse belongs to a family of champions, his sire, Rex McDonald being the world's champion of champions. On his dam's side he traces to Montrose who was champion for eighteen years. This horse has the finest shoulders and withers that I have ever seen, splendid bone, short back. His neck, head and ears are in the right place. He also has the best shoulder motion and hock action of any horse that I have ever had in my stable.

REX McD. is a show horse in harness as well as under the saddle. You can not make a mistake in breeding your good mares to this horse. He will make the season.

At $20.00 To Insure A Living Colt.

I will also stand my walking stallion.

GAY BOYD, At $10. To Insure Living Colt

PRINCE ALBERT, one of the best CLYDESDALE stallions in Kentucky will also make the season at my barns at the low price of $10.00 to insure a living colt. This is the kind to breed to for mule mares and farm horses.

At the same time and place will also stand two extra good JACKS at $10.00 each to insure living colts. All this stock will make the present season at my farm near Paint Lick, Ky.

Mares will be kept on grass at reasonable rates and every care taken to prevent accidents, but will not be responsible should any occur.

ALL FASCINATED BY WOMAN'S HAIR.

Nearly every woman who has an ordinary head of hair can by giving it just a little attention have luxuriant hair, soft, fluffy and radiantly beautiful.

It's a good thing to know this because hair preparations that put luster and lustre into dull looking hair are scarce, but it is a fact known to nearly every druggist in America that Parisian Sage, a delightfully clean and refreshing tonic not only will make your hair look 100 per cent better but will quickly stop it from falling, rid it of dandruff and scalp itch.

It's well worth a trial and R. E. McRoberts who disposes of a great quantity of it will tell you so, and will refund your money if it isn't all you expect.

Rank Foolishness.

You occasionally see it stated that cold is not result from cold weather. That is rank foolishness. Were it true cold would be as prevalent in midwinter as in midsummer. The microbe that causes colds flourishes in damp, cold weather. To get rid of a cold take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is effective and is highly recommended by people who have used it for many years as occasion required, and know its real value. Obtainable everywhere.

We regret to record the death of one of Paint Lick's most estimable citizens, that of Mr. I. C. Rucker, whose death came suddenly and unexpectedly Tuesday evening of paralysis, after he had been in declining health for several months. Mr. Rucker was born to Clark in 1874. With the exception of a few years spent in Lancaster he lived the greater portion of his life at Paint Lick. In 1877 he was united in marriage to Miss Bird Griggs, who together with five sons, Messrs. Jonas Rucker of Lexington, Hume Rucker of Louisville, O. C. Rucker of Paint Lick, and Miss Chastine Rucker survive him. For fifty years he was a faithful consistent member of the Methodist church and ever delighted in the service of God's House. Funeral services were held at the home Sunday afternoon by his pastor, Rev. Carmichael assisted by Rev. W. M. Eldridge and Rev. C. S. Ellis, with interment in the Lancaster cemetery.

FOR BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING COUGH, CROUP, COUGHS AND COLDS

Make the Best Remedy at Home—128 Teaspoonfuls for 50 cents.

If everything was sold in as liberal and fair a manner as the below named druggists are selling Schiffmann's New Concentrated Elixer, absolutely no cause for complaint or dissatisfaction could possibly arise from anyone. These druggists say: "Buy a bottle of this remedy and try it for Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Severe Cough, Croup or any Hoarseness. Addiction, and we will return your money; just the same as we do with Schiffmann's famous Asthmaid. If it does not give satisfaction, if not found the best remedy ever used for any of these complaints?" Why not take advantage of this guarantee and buy this medicine, and get your money back, rather than buying another purely on the exaggerated claims of its manufacturer or the strength of testimonials from others and run the chance of getting something worthless and also wasting your money?

In buying this remedy, besides securing an absolute guarantee of its efficiency from these druggists, you also get about eight times as much medicine as you will be buying most any of the old-fashioned, ready-made kinds, which average from 20 to 32 teaspoonfuls, because 50c worth makes a whole pint (128 tea-spoonfuls) when mixed at home with simply one pint of sugar and one-half pint of water. This remedy positively does not contain any perfume, but is simply made of any good aromatic oil. It is pleasant to take and children are fond of it. You will be the sole judge, and under this positive guarantee absolutely no risk in trying to buy this remedy. Druggists everywhere are authorized to sell it under the same guarantee as Schiffmann's famous Asthmaid, or "Money-Back" if not perfectly satisfactory. R. J. Schiffmann, Proprietor, Saint Paul, Minn. Hank Elwood's Conversion

By EDITH V. ROSS

Hank Elwood one evening stood at the door of his house looking out on his broad acres. There were the farm, well stocked, and crops just sprouting from the ground; there was the house, well furnished for one of its kind. But Hank was the only person in it.

Hank had always so far sought shy of women. He was not a student of feminine human nature, and he thought all single women did little else than set snarls for unmarried men. But he felt lonely.

"I ought to have a woman," he said to himself. "But where am I going to find one? Besides, women are a rambunctious lot, and I don't know but I should git one I'd wish I hadn't."

But Hank was desperate. He went down to Mrs. Blakeley's, an excellent friend of his, and told her:

"Moll, I want you to find me a wife. I'll tell you just what kind of a gal I want. She must be—"

"Hank," interrupted his friend, "if I'm goin' to recommend a gal to you, you'd better take her or my say so. You don't know anything about women."

"Don't I? I know enough to keep clear of one of the kind to stabber all over a man before she's married and after the knot's tied to jump on him and hose the whole job."

"Oh, you do, do you? Well, I'll tell you what I'll do: I'm expectin' a slice of mine from the east to visit me next week. You kin come in here as much as you like while she's here, and maybe you can git her. She wants to git married powerful bad. But it's my opinion you'd better let me pick out a woman for you and go in blind on my recommendation."

"Reckon I'll come in and see your place. If nothin' comes of it maybe I'll try your plan."

When the telec come in she proved to be a strapping lass, with a pair of rosy cheeks, and she made a dead set for Hank. Her voice was a low contralto, sometimes with the tone of a man's. She was rather awkward, and her hair was short, which she explained by stating that she had had a fever and it had come out.

"What do you think of her?" asked Mrs. Blakeley.

"I think she'd make a good farmer's wife," replied Hank. "She isn't one of the kind to sit round and look pretty. Their hands of hers are specially fitted for milkin', and washin'" dishes wouldn't spoil 'em."

"How about her disposition?"

"I ain't had time yet to make no observations as to that, but she seems to be good natured enough. What do you think of her?"

"I thought you was to decide the matter for yourself, you know so much about women. What use would it be for me to tell you she wasn't the kind of a woman you want? Would you pay any attention to me?"

Hank admitted that he had confidence in himself in knowing what he liked and what he didn't like, but if there was any defect in the girl he saw no reason why he should not be informed of it.

"There's nothin' the matter with her, so far as I know," was the noncommittal reply. But Hank did not consider it noncommittal. He made up to Lizzie, as her aunt called her, and did a bit of courting, but he found her coy and not disposed to permit him to be near her.

"She's the gal for me," said Hank to the aunt one day. "I tried to kiss her, and she wouldn't let me do it. There's safety in that kind of a gal. After a man's married to her he don't always feel makin' about her every time a good lookin' man comes round."

"That's all bush," said his friend.

Hank, finding that Lizzie would not permit kissing, assumed that he must first make his intentions known. He was in a hurry to get some one into his home and was much pleased with her. One evening he called at Mrs. Blakeley's. The aunt was washing dishes and the niece was wiping them. On Hank's arrival Lizzie threw down her dishcloth, took off her kitchen apron and joined the visitor on the porch. Mrs. Blakeley went on with her work. Lizzie had been with Hank a few minutes when her aunt heard her break out into a guffaw.

"Aunt Molly," she cried, "what dy'e think? Mr. Elwood wants me to marry him!"

The woman went outside. Lizzie had lifted her skirts above her knees, showing a pair of trousers under them, and was responding to the proposal by a clog dance.

"Reckon you don't know so much about women, Hank, as you think you do. Lizzie is a hoy."

Whereupon Lizzie took off the rest of her feminine apparel and appeared as a youth of eighteen.

Hank stood looking on this exhibition for a few minutes appalled. Then turning on his heel he went back to his farm.

It was weeks before he came to see his friend Moll Blakeley again; then to her:

"I give in, Moll. I don't know nothin' about women. I'm powerful lonesome at the farm. Get me a wife."

"I don't need to git you one. There's Sallie Hamm, the best woman I know. She's been wantin' you for a couple o' years."

"How do you know that?"

"No muther how I know it. If you want a mighty good wife go for her."

Hank took his friend's advice and has been very happy ever since.

The Heroine Of My Story

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

Sitting at my desk one balmy spring morning, rather than work I looked out through the open window.

At a window opposite a woman perhaps midway between twenty-five and thirty sat at a typewriter writing letters from stenographic notes. She was dressed in morning.

A sign of widowhood furnished food for a story that I was weaving, with her for the heroine. She was refined looking and comely. Quite likely her husband had left her to poverty, and she was eking out an miserable existence by hammering a typewriter from morning till night. I wondered if the sleek looking man I saw in an adjoining room, who seemed to be the manager, had a wife and if he would not fall in love with the widow and make her comfortable. But when he arose from his desk and stood with his hands in his pockets looking out through the window I changed the direction of my ramme and hoped if he did fall in love with the widow she would refuse him, because I did not like the expression on his face.

There was something malignant in it.

FULFILLS LINCOLN'S PROMISE

Navy Department to Take Monitor Survivor Through Canal.

President Lincoln's promise, made more than a half century ago to John Driscoll of Hampton, Va., said to be the oldest living survivor of the battle between the Monitor and the Merrimac during the civil war, is about to be carried out by the navy department.

After the naval engagement President Lincoln summoned the crew of the Monitor, of which Driscoll was a member, to Washington. He thanked them for their valor and said if any of them ever wanted a favor it would be only necessary to ask for it.

It was not until recently, however, that Driscoll decided to ask the proffered favor. He requested to be taken aboard a battleship going through the Panama canal, which, he said, he longed to see before he died. Arrangements for the trip have been completed, and the next warship that passes through the great waterway will carry the aged veteran as a passenger.

BILLY SUNDAY NO PACIFIST.

Say Street Car Is Haunted.

Because they believe car 137 is haunted.

motormen and conductors of a Huntington (W. Va.) street railway company refuse to work on that car, and it will likely be sold or reduced to kindling wood. Jefferson Ray, the motorman, says it gives a hop, skip and jump every time it passes a mule and that it has become unmanageable.

BILLY SUNDAY NO PACIFIST.

God is a god of war as well as peace. We must fight as well as pray. If it hadn't been for war we would be singing "God Save the King" instead of "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." If it hadn't been for war the bloodhounds would be chasing the black men through the swamps and canebrakes today; if it hadn't been for war Spain would still be tearing at the heart of Cuba; if it hadn't been for war the flag of Mexico would be waving over Texas, New Mexico, Nevada and California. Yes, I believe in preparedness; I believe in battleships and submarines, and if any of the nations across the sea should dare to find out whether the American people believe in the Monroe doctrine let them start something. If they do I would like to be colonel of a regiment.—Billy Sunday, the Evangelist.
